Patriotic Festival will honor WWII veterans

BY CHRIS BROOKE
editor@hclocal.com

William H. Mason, 97, of Eminence felt fascinated with airplanes as a youth, but felt less than enthusiastic about his service during World War II when the Navy tapped him as a stateside aviation machinist mate.

Mason is one of several World War II veterans who will be recognized for his service during this year's New Castle Patriotic Festival June 13, the 70th anniversary of the war's conclusion.

Conscripted in 1944 while in his mid-20s, Mason didn't want to go to the Great Lakes base in Chicago for basic training during winter or serve in transportation at the Norfolk Naval Air Station in Virginia.

"I was drafted," he recalled. "I begged them not to because I had a daughter who was going to be born. Really and truly, at that point, you didn't want to go into the service. You didn't know where you were going or what you were going to have to do, and you had a family you were leaving behind, too — a wife and a family."

The Navy made Mason a company commander during boot camp and put him in charge of 150 men in a segregated unit.

"We had a whole big barracks of these fellas, and I had to see them every night that they got in the bed, and I had to take the reports to my commander every night," he remembered.

After boot camp, the Navy assigned Mason

Garden Plot

Ag students cultivate new project during FFA Week

BY CHRIS BROOKE
editor@hclocal.com

Henry County High School agriculture students dug into a community service project during one of their busiest times of the year, FFA Week.

But when Mona Huff, Henry County community organizer for the KIPDA Rural Diabetes Coalition, asked ag teacher Lindsey Davie to assist in creating a garden at Twin Oaks Assisted Living in New Castle, the students ticked many items off the to-do list, such as building four raised beds out of cedar, hauling dirt and compost and planting the first crop of fruit and vegetables.

Huff continues her work to encourage Henry County residents to eat healthy and avoid the repercussions of having a bad diet. She sees that as critically important in Henry County where statistics show roughly a third of the population are obese and about 11.4 percent are diabetic, according to the Behavioral Risk Factors Surveillance Survey.

First class chosen for iLEAD school

editor@hclocal.com

Nine Henry County students will join the first class at the iLEAD Academy, the regional career academy focusing on technology, math and advanced manufacturing that launches in the 2015-2016 school year.

Superintendents of school districts in Carroll, Gallatin, Henry, Owen and Trimble counties have cooperated to open Kentucky's first regional career academy, so their students can experience the competitive advantages of a curriculum that will prepare them for the highest-demand, highest-wage jobs around.

iLEAD has been designed for students to study independently and choose specialized courses not available in other schools in order to prepare for careers in advanced manufacturing, architecture, construction, engineering and technology, according to an OVEC news release.

In short, the academy will offer innovative high school educational opportunities integrated into regional workforce development.

Project-based learning will enable students to apply what they learn to real-world situations. A combination

POSTAL PATRONS DELIVER DURING FOOD DRIVE

SUBMITTED

Henry County postal patrons sent a message they don't want their neighbors going without during 2015's Stamp Out Hunger, according to Postmaster John Donnelly. Called the largest single-day national food drive, the Henry County portion far surpassed last year's totals. "We collected a total of 3,561 pounds," Donnelly noted. "That is a 36 percent increase over last year. I am humbled by everyone's generosity. This is a fantastic showing from our community." All donations will go to the Henry County Help Center to assist in the food pantry program. Help Center Director Joe Durbin said because donations typically fall in the summer, Stamp Out Hunger will help fill in those gaps.

Local businesses eligible for SBA disaster assistance

U.S. Small Business Administration's Administrator Maria Contreras-Sweet issued the following statement after the announcement of the Presidential disaster declaration for several counties in Kentucky affected by severe storms, tornadoes, flooding, landslides and mudslides on April 2-17, 2015. "The U.S. Small Business Administration is strongly committed to providing the people of Kentucky with the most effective and customer-focused response possible to assist businesses, homeowners, and renters with federal disaster loans. Getting businesses and communities up and running after a disaster is our highest priority at SBA." The disaster declaration covers the counties of Bath, Bourbon, Carter, Elliott, Franklin, Jefferson, Lawrence, Madison, Rowan and Scott in Kentucky which are eligible for both Physical and Economic Injury Disaster Loans from the SBA. This makes small businesses and most private non-profit organizations in adjacent counties eligible, including Henry, to apply only for SBA Economic Injury Disaster Loans. For small businesses, small agricultural cooperatives, small businesses engaged in aquaculture and most private non-profit organizations of all sizes, the SBA offers Economic Injury Disaster Loans to help meet working capital needs caused by the disaster. Economic Injury Disaster Loan assistance is available regardless of whether the business suffered any physical property damage. To be considered for all forms of disaster assistance, applicants should register online at www.DisasterAssistance.gov or by mobile device at m.fema.gov.

According to Ohio Valley Educational Cooperative, which will operate iLEAD, Project Lead the Way graduates are recruited by employers like Toyota, Dow Corning, Chevron and 3M. Originally expected to receive six slots, nine Henry students have been chosen to attend: Austin Ernst, Blake Jagger, Dawson Allen, Mark Gilkison, Jaci Gaines, Lori Porter, Ethan Lyle, Owen Berry and Zach Garcia. a new way to learn," Berry said. "It's going to change it up a little bit."

Porter felt she had to seize the chance to attend iLEAD, because it's a unique and amazing opportunity. This could help her reach her goal of a career that she loves and to become successful.

"I want to be an engineer," Ernst said. "That's a big goal for me. I love asking questions. I love hands-on learning activities." "There were a large number of quality candidates from all over the district, so the five superintendents put their heads together and tried to expand it," Zach Woods, Henry County Middle School principal, said. Woods got to share the news with the students that they had been chosen for the iLEAD Academy. There will be academic challenges for the students, but those who rise to the occasion at iLEAD will graduate with skills that will make them more marketable for a career or higher education, whichever they choose. "I'm confident that group's success is going to pave the way for more opportunities for Henry County schools students," Woods said.

She was thrilled to be able to bring several groups together in a multi-generational project to benefit Twin Oaks residents. She enjoyed the idea of the students providing assistance to supply the nursing home residents with tomatoes, peppers, squash, cucumbers and strawberries. "I am so excited about how we can work with the students to help the older generation," Huff said. "I want to provide healthier foods for the residents. I want the kids to learn about how important it is to help others and about good nutrition." Growing their own foods is deeply ingrained in many of the nursing home residents, she said. With the new raised beds, they can get their hands back into the dirt, if they want. It will offer the additional benefit of giving the residents a chance for outdoor exercise. Other community partners provided invaluable assistance to the project, including David Neville, who provided materials for the beds at less than cost and donated other items;

Barbara Gregory, owner of Gregory Farms, who provided the strawberries and squash; student Justin Yount, also the Henry County FFA Chapter president for the 2014-2015 school year, who hauled the topsoil; and students Yount, Patrick Cravens and Joseph Fischer, who constructed the beds and helped install them. In all, the materials for the four beds cost $268, Huff said. Some of the funds came from a HCHS senior service project. "I think what we're doing is a great thing," Justin Yount said. "We're helping the community.

The community helps us with everything. We just wanted to give back." While the partners might not get to it this spring, Huff said they also plan to plant blueberry bushes and possibly create porch gardens outside residents' rooms. "We're looking for some way to get more fruits and vegetables to more people," she explained. It may be a challenge, because the funding stream that the diabetes coalition had will end this year, so the group will have to figure out ways to support the program after that, Huff added. She sees it as critical to continue the diabetes outreach and education. "None of us are big enough to do it all, but if we work together, we can get a lot done," she said. After organizing high-profile activities like Tractor Day and hosting the Burger Bash at the high school where students served up about 165 pounds of beef, the ag students rounded out FFA Week by welcoming seventh-grade students to the greenhouse and a tour of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and farm. "We try to have a variety of activities during FFA week," Davie said. "It turned out pretty neat having a fun activity like Muddy Truck day on Monday, a community and agriculture focused activity on Tuesday with Burger Bash, a service learning project on Wednesday with the garden beds, a teaching and recruiting day on Thursday letting all the seventh-graders learn about the ag program and shop in the greenhouse for Mother's Day, and wrapping up on Friday with a UK College of Ag tour as a reward for students who logged the most Leadership Points throughout the year."

Celebrating one year in Henry County

This spring, my wife Beth and I have enjoyed several anniversaries that highlight our growing bonds with our new communities.

With our transition eased by extended family long established in the region, we uprooted ourselves about 14 months ago from the mountains of Virginia, a place where we lived 17 years, to pursue great new opportunities here in Kentucky.

We bought our simple ranch-style home in March 2014, made the 400-mile-plus trek several times until officially taking up residence here last May.

Upon our arrival, Beth became a member of the University of Louisville's College of Medicine Class of 2018. She's studied almost constantly since then, gotten good marks and made many friends among her fellow students.

Editor

Thanks to my association with Landmark Community Newspapers, now approaching 19 years, I've been welcomed into the fold at the Henry County Local.

Since arriving, I've been impressed by my co-workers' love of the community, made clear by their knowledge, insight, dedication and work ethic that goes far beyond simply warming an office chair from 8 to 4 each weekday.

I can't think of a better place to begin to know Henry County than through the wonderful people who work at the newspaper.

It's hard to imagine finding a collection of people more warm and open, caring and hardworking and wise than Publisher Melissa Blankenship, Office Manager Phyllis Banta, Advertising Manager Barbara Didier, Circulation Manager Tawnja Morris and Sports Editor Greg Woods under one roof.

I count myself fortunate.

Looking out into the community, I find that many Henry County residents share these traits. I'm enjoying getting to know more community members while pursuing the newspaper's mission of sharing important information with others.

Becoming familiar with life here through the citizens' eyes and experiences instantly provides me glimpses of their hopes, dreams and desires for the community.

Everybody I talk to wants the best for Henry County. All the different perspectives on how to bring about the best outcomes make it all the more interesting to hear.

While I've lived in a couple communities about the size of Eminence and Henry County, I've never encountered one quite as close-knit as this one.

As someone who has become acquainted with Henry County later in life, it's easy to admire the sense of camaraderie and comfort that people here feel with each other. It's the epitome of a community that cherishes family, friends and neighbors.

As editor of the newspaper for a year now, I appreciate it when Henry County residents reach out to get us involved in the latest happenings.

One of the pegs on which I gauge our success is the engagement of readers and community members.

We've gotten a healthy amount of contributions, but we have room for more. In the final analysis, the newspaper should reflect what's important to the citizens.

After spending a year getting to know the place, I still need help. Readers can improve the newspaper offerings by sending in their birth announcements, engagements, weddings, sharing photos of important events or school activities or advance the community conversation by submitting letters to the editor.

Just as the door at the Local opened and welcomed me into the fold, I want to make sure the people of Henry County continue to be welcomed here, too.

Letters to the Editor

Get out and vote for the 2015 primary

Hundreds of thousands of young Americans are serving our military to preserve our way of life, and yet fewer and fewer of our citizens are participating in our democracy. May 19 is primary election day, when Kentuckians will be selecting candidates for governor, commissioner of agriculture and other constitutional officers.

Members of Henry County Farm Bureau hope every voter will make their voices heard by casting informed votes for our government leaders.

As Kentuckians, it is our responsibility to find out the ideas of each candidate. And, as Henry Countians, it is our responsibility to let the candidates know what issues are important to our community, and it's easy to do.

It is critically important we have elected officials in office who understand the importance of agriculture and the issues confronting rural Kentucky.

Be involved and attend the functions candidates attend and tell them what is important and ask them about their positions on key issues. Campaigns select issues based on what voters tell them are important.

Your involvement will make a difference in the process. First, you must bring your issues to the front of the debate. Then, hold the candidates accountable by going to vote.

Henry County Farm Bureau urges you to make an impact by voting in the May 19 primary.

Terry A. Rowlett, president, Henry County Farm Bureau

Thumbs up for positive content

I would like to take a moment to let the staff of the Henry County Local know how much I appreciate their efforts in reporting all the good things going on in our community.

I know that whenever I have had an event going on such as Organ Donation Awareness Month or the Relay For Life, the Local has provided ample coverage to help get the information out.

And it's not just every now and then. Every week there are articles regarding blood donation, diabetes awareness, the Help Center, student activities, citizens being recognized for their good works. The list goes on and on.

We are very fortunate to have a publication so willing to spotlight all the great people and happenings in this wonderful county! Keep up the good work!

A call for Congress to repeal the Patriot Act

Congress faces a critical deadline, and time is running out. On June 1, 2015, three provisions of the USA Patriot Act will expire. The actions of the United States Congress between today and June 1 will affect the privacy and liberty of millions of innocent Americans.

The 2001 USA Patriot Act was drafted and swiftly passed in the wake of the September 11 terrorist attacks. Due to the nature of the crisis, the goal was simply to pass a bill as quickly as possible. Many congressmen did not have an opportunity to thoroughly read, analyze, or vet the bill's numerous and lengthy provisions. In fact, Rep. Jim Sensenbrenner, one of the original authors of the Patriot Act, later declared that he was shocked by how the law was used to spy on innocent Americans.

Congress and the American people now know, thanks to whistleblower leaks, that federal agencies like the National Security Agency

Thomas Massie

U.S. Representative

(NSA) regularly perform mass surveillance on Americans without bothering to obtain a warrant. As constitutional law scholar Randy Barnett wrote in the Wall Street Journal, "the National Security Agency has seized from private companies voluminous data on the phone and Internet usage of all U.S. citizens. . . . this dangerously violates the most fundamental principles of our republican form of government." He concludes that, "such indiscriminate data seizures are the epitome of 'unreasonable,' akin to the 'general warrants' issued by the Crown to authorize searches of Colonial Americans."

One of the tools that enables this warrantless, mass harvesting of call information and data records—Section 215 of the Patriot Act—is one of the three provisions set to expire on June 1 of this year. This looming deadline presents the best opportunity we have in the foreseeable future to stop lawless surveillance. That is why Congressman Mark Pocan and I recently introduced the bipartisan "Surveillance State Repeal Act" (H.R. 1466). H.R. 1466 would repeal the entire Patriot Act, as well as its companion, the FISA Amendments Act of 2008. I believe the best option is to repeal both of these bills and start over. If congressmen believe that individual provisions of either the Patriot Act or the FISA Amendments Act are critical to our national security, then we should bring each separate provision to the floor, allow full debate, and schedule an up-or-down-vote on each provision. This process would also give the American people an opportunity to fully understand exactly what each section of each bill would supposedly accomplish.

Some claim it's too late to roll back these surveillance programs. I disagree. We can win this fight, as recent legislative victories indicate.

For example, in 2013, Rep. Justin Amash led the charge against Section 215 of the Patriot Act by offering an amendment to the Department of Defense Appropriations Act. His amendment would have ended the indiscriminate collection of Americans' telephone records. He came very close to victory. The Amash amendment lost by a mere handful of votes, and I believe he would have won if misinformation about his amendment had not been published on the eve of the vote.

Rep. Amash's amendment set the groundwork for a subsequent legislative victory. Last year, my amendment to the Department of Defense Appropriations bill, co-sponsored with Rep. Zoe Lofgren and many others, passed the House of Representatives by an overwhelming bipartisan, veto-proof majority. The amendment, which passed by a vote of 293 to 123, would have banned warrantless surveillance currently performed via the authority of Section 702 of the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA). Although my amendment did not specifically address Section 215 of the Patriot Act, it would have put an end to surveillance that is arguably worse than the collection of records allowed under Section 215 (as bad as that is). Section 702 allows the government warrantless access to actual content of Americans' communications, including emails and phone calls. Sadly, despite my legislative victory, congressional leadership refused to include the amendment language in the final version of last year's government spending bill.

The votes on both the Amash and Massie amendments demonstrate that there is overwhelming support for ending mass surveillance, despite what the establishment in both Congress and our federal intelligence agencies claim.

The Founders of this great nation fought and died to stop the kind of warrantless spying and searches that the Patriot Act and the FISA Amendments Act authorize. What happens between now and June 1 depends on the American people. It is imperative that every freedom-loving American demand an end to these unconstitutional programs. At the very least, the expiring provisions of the Patriot Act should not be renewed on June 1.

After that, the entire Patriot Act should be repealed so we can start over and establish law enforcement programs that respect our Constitution.

work on transportation detail in Norfolk, where he would have to drive motorcycles, cars, trucks, 18-wheelers and airplanes. He had a variety of duties, which included driving the base commander, dropping off a contingent of German prisoners of war at their assigned labor detail and parking airplanes that pilots flew in.

They made him a machinist's mate because with the education he had from attending Kentucky State, the Navy officers found him more qualified for the work than other sailors.

In making him an aviation machinist's mate, the Navy apparently picked up on Mason's passion for things aeronautic. His interest stemmed from barnstorming pilots who visited Eminence during his youth, and that grew into a hobby as he learned about flight by reading discarded Popular Mechanics magazines.

"I was always crazy about airplanes," he said. "They used to have a Fourth of July picnic, the Odd Fellows, at [what became] Brunswick. They used to have a parade. The afternoon before then, they would have airplanes come in .... And they would take people up, fly them. I would go out and look at them and fool around with them and help the propeller starting..."

He and a friend, Joey Blade, were both interested in planes, and they had a plan around 1933 to 1935 to build their own out of an old Model T Ford using Mason's father's woodshop. He remembered this occurred after he completed the two years of high school offered in Eminence and graduated from high school in Shelbyville.

They wanted to turn the car's motor around and mount a propeller, but there were several challenges. One was they wanted to make the propeller themselves, but it needed a certain pitch on it. A second was making the carburetor right so it wouldn't get fuel starved while in flight.

They sought advice from Lee Miles, a vice president of Boeing, about where to get a propeller since they couldn't make one. Miles was also supposed to help Mason get a beginner's pilot's license.

Mason also described having a plane that was like a glider but with a four-cycle engine.

"I sat there at nighttime, learning how to fly this thing, how to bank it," he recalled. "You've got to have so many feet before a plane would take off, then you have to know how to bank it and how to turn. We learned how to make the rudders that make the turns..."

Those who wanted to become pilots had to know all these things before they could get their beginner's license from the state. Mason said their airplane ideas didn't get off the ground, other than the paper and cardboard varieties that they threw in school.

"Kids don't fool with airplanes no more," Mason said. "It used to be one of the biggest things in the world."

The Navy trained Mason to work on planes. He had to know how to operate them for his assignments. He would go with pilots on a duty called "flight attendance" and pay attention to what the pilot did. If something were to go wrong or the pilot got sick, Mason might have been called on to fly.

Working with airplanes was his dream, but Mason laughed when he said he didn't let on to the Navy.

"I let them send me where they wanted to send me," he recalled. "I didn't want them to send me anywhere."

Mason served about 23 months total in the Navy. He didn't care for his time in Norfolk, a segregated Southern city where he had to be careful about going certain places or he could be arrested.

At the end of the war, Mason had the opportunity to be commissioned and further his education at Northwestern University if he stayed in the Navy, but he wanted to get back home.

On the other hand, Mason admits he had a better turn of duty in the Navy than he would have in the Army. He sounded glad he never had to take up arms against the Germans.

"You went on a rifle range to take a test and that's about all you did with a rifle," Mason said.

New Castle Patriotic Festival

The New Castle Patriotic Festival Committee will honor all World War II veterans on the June 13 celebration, beginning at 11 a.m. with a parade.

All veterans are welcomed to participate in the events.

Expected attendees include a veteran who landed during D-Day, one who singlehandedly took out three German tanks, one who was shot down over enemy territory and one who fought in the Battle of the Bulge.

"We honored 13 World War II veterans last year and would love to see that number grow," New Castle Main Street Manager Jeff Thoke said.

For more information about honoring veterans, call Thoke at (502) 645-5421.

"Some say they are estimating 15 to 11 percent, which means we may end up at 9 percent — or even less," Archer said. "It is very unfortunate that whether we have a 55 percent or 5 percent turnout, it costs the county the same amount of money to hold an election."

As of May 8, the county clerk's office had only seen five voters come in to cast absentee ballots, she said, indicating how engaged locals are in the state races.

While this year's election activities don't hold as much interest as last year when voters chose elected officials for Henry County and the cities, Archer encour-

Who has what it takes to be a disciple of Jesus?

"I don't want you hanging around those kinds of people!"

For as long as there have been parents and children, children have heard this from their parents and later said it to their own children.

Wise parents understand that their children are shaped by those with whom they spend time.

The parental warning reminds me of the title of sermon a college friend presented to his peers in a preaching class: "Lay Down with Dogs and Get Up with Fleas."

Jesus said the same thing, but his words

MICHAEL Duncan
Pastor, Eminence Baptist Church

sound a bit more inviting and positive.

"Abide in Me, and I in you." They are such simple words . . . and such promising words. "Abide in Me, and I in you" (See John 15:1-8).

In the short time Jesus spent with His first disciples, He warned them often of the difficulties they would face as a result of being associated with Him.

Some would-be followers were warned away, or so it seems. Yet, He was forever calling others to follow.

If Jesus was truly human, as we claim, did He grow in his own understanding regarding those who would become His disciples?

Early in his ministry, as He began to understand its end, did He warn away those whom

He saw as not having what it took?

Was He offering those who stuck around reason to leave?

Did He reach a point when it became clear to Him that His disciples could remain faithful by the same manner in which he was remaining faithful?

Perhaps the answer to each question is "yes."

At some point, Jesus became sure regarding what it took for anyone to be and remain a disciple: "Abide in Me, and I in you."

Jesus protected and nourished His relationship with the Father.

He lived and breathed through that relationship.

He supped with friends, faced down His detractors, and endured the cross . . . all of this through His relationship with the Father.

His own eternal life was in that relationship.

"Abide in Me, and I in you."

It's that simple.

Perhaps the real question before us has nothing to do with whether we can endure as Jesus' disciples. The real question is a different one.

Do we want to endure as disciples?

Whether we live out our faith as Christians, Jews, Muslims, or some other faith, remaining faithful and capable of bearing fruit requires abiding in the Source of that faith. If we do, the way is open.

For those of us who are Christian, the purpose of our living and of our discipleship is to produce fruit (John 15:5, 8). There is only one way to produce the fruit of our faith.

"Abide in Me, and I in you."

Anyone can do it, but only by abiding in Him.

Eminence school nurse recognized for her work with students

In honor of National School Nurse Day and in recognition of the important work that nurses do in schools and communities across the country, Healthy Schools Campaign announced the winners of its second annual School Nurse Leadership Award, according to a news release.

The five winners and five honorable mentions, including Belinda Stivers from Eminence Independent Schools, have gone above and beyond by reimagining the role that school nurses play within their schools, and by creating and advancing school health programs and initiatives that contribute to students' health and academic success, and to the health of the broader community.

"It's truly an honor to recognize these 10 outstanding school nurses for their hard work and innovative approaches to improving the health and wellbeing of their students," Rochelle Davis, Healthy Schools Campaign president and CEO, said.

"And while today we're highlighting 10 individuals, the School Nurse Leadership Award is really an opportunity to recognize and thank all school nurses for the important work that they do within our schools and communities and on behalf of our children."

Hired 17 years ago as Eminence's first school nurse Stivers also received the Kentucky School Nurses Association School Nurse of the Year in 2005.

Asked what she attributed the recognition to, Stivers said she has passion for being a school nurse and caring about kids.

"Whether it's dressing like a banana to encourage healthy snacks, carb counting from a digital menu, giving medication or taking care of an injury, I want students to know that I care and I am always there for them," Stivers said. "I have always had and continue to have the support of the board of education, administration, teachers, staff, students, parents and the community. I am truly honored to work in a school community that values school nursing and makes health and wellness a priority."

FIELD TRIP TO EUROPE

Fifteen Henry County High School students recently took a whirlwind tour of Europe that included visits to Paris, the Provence region of France and Barcelona, Spain, in nine days, according to arts, humanities and sociology teacher Toby Smith. The trip was open to all the students in the school, and 11 parents went along with Smith. Spanish teacher Chris Robinson and English teacher Shelly McClure and served as chaperones. "For the most part, I have wanted to give the students a chance to experience culture and art from societies different from our own," Smith said. "The tours we choose are arts and culture centric, but we always make sure to include Spain as a method to engage our Spanish language learners. The tours are very fast-paced and the kids see a lot of destinations in a short amount of time." Smith has worked with EF Tours during his seven years as a teacher, and they've grown from three travelers to 26 on this latest trip. Present are, front from left, Ally Warnersmith, Kelby Mefford, Airyana Hardy, Christina Porter, Nick Jump; middle row, Rachel Vegh, Sophie Hughes, Micah Lineman, Aleah Tuggle, Erin Bush, Kaci Corley; back, Cameron Morgan, Sarah Foree, Jakob Beckley and Jada Medina.

EIS STUDENTS HELP TWO CAUSES

When raising money for the March of Dimes, Aimee Perry promised to let her top fundraising student at Eminence Elementary hit her in the face with a pie. She did her promise one better May 8. Perry said that for the second year in a row Hayley Whitaker, top photo, raised the most out of the kindergarten, first and third grades and would wield the pie. All together, these students raised $623.01. In addition, Ms. McMillian's and Ms. Gibson's classes raised the most dimes, 1,200 all together, and both received pizza parties on May 7. But second-graders were raising money for Clips for Kids, and Perry let Caroline Yount hit her with a pie on behalf of the effort begun by Isabella Coffee. It doesn't matter what worthy cause the children want to give to, as long as it's a cause they feel passionate about, Perry said.

Check to see if your first-aid kit is up-to-date

We noticed the other day that our office first-aid kit needed re-stocking after some band-aids that had been in there for about 10 years wouldn't stick!

So, when we received the following information from UK Health Care it seemed a good time to share with everyone.

We all should have a well-stocked first-aid kit at home, in the car and in the workplace.

You may also want to stock a portable kit (a box or small bag) that can be taken to the site of an emergency.

It is important to check your kit regularly to restock items that have been used, and to replace items that are out-of-date.

The contents of the kit vary depending upon the number of people it is designed to protect, as well as its intent for use.

Recommended contents of a first-aid kit include the following:

- Instruments — bulb syringe, scissors, thermometer (oral) and tweezers
- Bandages — adhesive tape, butterfly bandages, elastic bandages, hypoallergenic tape, sling (triangular-shaped cloth), sterile cotton balls, sterile eye patches, sterile gauze pads (four inches square), stretchable gauze roll and waterproof tape

- Medications — Acetaminophen, antacid, antibiotic ointment, antidiarrheal medication, antihistamine, aspirin, antiseptic ointment, calamine lotion, decongestant, Hydrocortisone cream, Ibuprofen and sugar or glucose solution
- Miscellaneous items — alcohol (rubbing 70 percent), alcohol wipes, blanket, candles, chemical ice packs or ice bag, chemical hot packs or hot water bottle, cotton swabs, disposable gloves (non-Latex if you or a loved one has a Latex allergy), face mask for cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), first-aid book, flashlight, insect repellent, insect sting swabs, matches, measuring spoons, paper and pencil, paper cups, soap, safety pins, sunscreen, tissues and tongue blades

You can also use the following everyday items in the event of an emergency:

- disposable or cloth diapers for compresses, bandages or padding for splints
- dish towels for bandages or slings

- umbrella, rolled magazine, or layered newspaper for use as a splint

In addition, it is helpful to carry the following items in your car:

- a large blanket
- gallon-size bottle of water
- flashlight and extra batteries

If your child or other family member has special medical needs, be sure to carry extra medical supplies when you go on an outing or trip.

Some of these items might include the following:

- An allergy kit containing medications to be used by people allergic to insect stings or certain foods
- Prescription medications (make sure they're stored properly and aren't expired), syringes and special equipment or supplies

Be sure any member of your family who has special needs wears a Medic Alert bracelet or necklace at all times.

Applications are available in most pharmacies.

Interest in industrial hemp is growing, Comer reports

Kentucky Agriculture Commissioner James Comer recently joined farmers and industry leaders to lay out an ambitious agenda of industrial hemp research projects and economic development initiatives in Kentucky in 2015.

"We're here today to brand Kentucky as a leader in industrial hemp production," Comer said in a celebration at G.F. Vaughan Tobacco Warehouse #23 in Lexington. "We want to make Kentucky synonymous with hemp like Idaho with potatoes. ... Hemp equals jobs and economic development."

The Kentucky Department of Agriculture, which administers the industrial hemp program in Kentucky, approved 121 applications for hemp pilot projects, including universities, growers and processors. The approved projects total 1,724.25 acres to be planted.

The interest in hemp has extended to Henry County, where Hemp Foods America is seeking to first import hemp food products, such as oil and protein for distribution and then, if successful, become a hemp foods processor.

Following the event, the department was informed that the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration approved KDA's permits to import seed.

Many speakers expressed excitement about the return of hemp as a Kentucky crop after 70 years.

"By believing in and fighting for Kentucky farmers, Commissioner Comer has created an opportunity for farmers, industries and communities to work together, build infrastructure and grow jobs, and it's been my honor to be a part of that," Mike Lewis, a Rockcastle County farmer and chief operating officer of Freedom Seed and Feed, said.

Before and after the event, Lewis and other Freedom Feed and Seed staff demonstrated hemp processing with an old-fashioned hand brake. The hemp that was processed will be used to make American flags later this year.

Steve Bevan, chief operating officer for GenCanna Global of Lexington, said the company employs more than 40 people in Kentucky and will add more jobs in the future. "We at GenCanna and the Hemp Kentucky Project are very, very pleased in the investment we've made in human capital," Bevan said. "They have enabled Kentucky to get out front and stay out front in the emerging industrial hemp industry."

Mark Rosenfeld, CEO

of ISA Scientific, a Utah company that develops cannabinoid-based health products, said ISA will work with GenCanna to develop medicinal products derived from industrial hemp.

"I am very pleased to return to the Bluegrass State for such important work, and I'm honored and eager to commence collaborative work with colleagues at the University of Kentucky," Perry Fine, ISA Scientific's medical director and a Kentucky native whose father was on the faculty at the opening of the UK Chandler Medical Center, said. Fine said chronic pain and diabetes will be the first targets of clinical trials.

Andy Graves, CEO of Atalo Holdings, a holding company for three hemp businesses, said Atalo has the largest hemp grower group in Kentucky with 30 growers in 12 counties planting 545 acres. Graves said Atalo and GenCanna are working together to create a hemp "campus" at the old F.W. Rickard seed facility in Winchester.

"You may not believe this, but you're standing in the heart of hemp country today," Graves said. "No one else is doing what Kentucky is doing."

The industrial hemp pilot projects are intended to generate data on production methods, seed varieties, harvesting and processing techniques and uses for harvested hemp. The first pilot projects in 2014 were conducted by seven universities and 14 individual farmers under the supervision of the KDA. The projects investigated the production of more than 35 varieties of hemp on just over 30 acres.

Kentucky's first hemp crop was grown in 1775, and Kentucky went on to become the nation's leading hemp-producing state in the mid-19th century with peak production of 40,000 tons in 1850. U.S. hemp production declined after the Civil War, and almost all of the nation's hemp was grown in the Bluegrass region of Kentucky. Federal legislation passed in 1938 outlawed production of cannabis, including hemp, in the U.S. Hemp production in Kentucky and the U.S. ramped up during World War II as part of the war effort but fell again after the war and ended with the demise of a small hemp fiber industry in Wisconsin in 1958.

For more information on industrial hemp, the pilot projects, and hemp's history in Kentucky, go to www.kyagr.com/hemp.

Dairy farmer talks cow health and milk quality with the Eminence Rotary Club

Susan Coleman is similar in many ways to the members of the Eminence Rotary Club she spoke with on May 4 – working to provide a quality product to customers, according to a news release from the Southeast United Dairy Industrial Association.

But unlike the typical local business, Coleman's most important asset is her cows and her product is milk.

The Coleman family owns and operates their family dairy farm outside of Eminence.

The family milks 60 cows twice a day.

They also raise corn and alfalfa hay on the 142-acre farm.

"To dairy farmers, the ultimate reward is knowing their actions help create a healthy, abundant and affordable food supply for this community," SUDIA said.

The Coleman family lives and works on the farm, which serves as a strong incentive for protecting the land, water and air. They also assess cow comfort and health every day.

The Colemans work with a dairy animal nutritionist to formulate the best diets for the cows and veterinarians come to the farm regularly to check on the animal's health, the news release said. Regular advancements in animal care and milk quality methods result in better milk.

"We planned our facilities to provide the cows with a clean comfortable environment with emphasis on coping with the heat and humidity of summer and calving time," Coleman said.

"Southeast dairy farmers protect their land, care for their animals and produce high quality milk and dairy foods for their families and yours," SUDIA said.

The non-profit Southeast United Dairy Industry Association, Inc. (SUDIA) is funded by dairy farm families of the Southeast and works with schools, health professionals, retailers, dairy processors and the public to promote dairy foods.

Payton signs with St. Catharine College

Makes All-Resilient Team

BY GREG WOODS
sports@hclocal.com

Megan Payton has endured a lot of physical hurdles in her high school sports career but after a successful basketball and volleyball season, the Henry County High School senior has seen her hard work and perseverance pay off. Payton signed a letter of intent to play basketball for St. Catharine College May 5 in the HCHS library.

Two weeks ago Payton was also selected to be a part of the tomleach.com All-Resilient Team for overcoming two season-ending knee injuries during her sophomore and junior seasons to have a highly successful senior season.

Payton was joined at the high school for the signing ceremony by St. Catharine basketball coach Lena Bramblett. "We are extremely happy Megan has chosen St. Catharine to continue her education and basketball career," Bramblett said. "She is a diamond in the rough and we look forward to coaching her over the next four years."

For Payton, a long difficult career has finally made her dream of going to college come true.

"I feel relieved that I finally committed to a college, because it is so late in my senior year," Payton said. "I'm excited because I love the basketball girls at St. Catherine and the campus is beautiful."

"They have a nursing program which I am interested in and I felt more comfortable at St. Catharine than any other place I visited. St. Catharine feels like the perfect home away from home."

Her high school coach, Todd Gilley, thinks Payton made the right choice.

"It's a great fit for Megan," Gilley said. "When we got to campus it didn't take long to see that she fit in on that campus and with the girls on the team. She adjusted to them quickly on the court and socially."

"On a personal note, I am so happy for her because it shows the growth that she has made over the past few years both athletically and personally."

Henry County senior Megan Payton, seated, second from right, signed with St. Catharine College May 5 in the Henry County High School Library. Payton overcame two season-ending knee injuries to have a standout senior season for the Lady Cats. Because of her efforts, she was named to the tomleach.com Kentucky All-Resilient Team.

Payton appreciates those who have helped her make it to the next level.

"I want to thank my mom for always running me around to practices and coming to my games and supporting me," Payton said. "I want to thank Coach Gilley for putting up with me all these years through some of my worst times. I also want to thank Coach Blanton for picking me up when I'm down and always having something inspirational to say to me."

When asked about making the All-Resilient Team Payton said she was surprised and honored to find out that Assistant Coach Bruce Blanton had nominated her for the award and that she had made it.

The All-Resilient Team

honors high school athletes in Kentucky who overcome physical and mental hardships to compete and excel in sports.

"The dinner and awards presentation were really nice and really fancy," she said. "I got to hear all the kids tell their stories about what they are going through."

"I felt like many of those honored with me had been through so much more than I had. It was truly inspirational."

Gilley said that Payton deserved the honor.

"Many people would have given up after two knee injuries and so much rehabbing," Gilley said. "Megan finished rehab ahead of schedule and she came back stronger than before the injuries."

WILDCATS

Henry County pulled within one run in the top of the fifth. Trey Wills, Jaden Berry and Bodie Clark scored the runs and Connor Smith had an important two-out hit to get an RBI. Carroll County came right back in their half of the inning to score three more runs, including another home run to lead 9-5.

The Wildcats tried to mount one last rally in the sixth.

Nick Riggins led off with a walk but was forced out at second on a groundball by Wills. Wills took second on a passed ball before Berry flew out to right field. Clark singled to score Wills but that was all the scoring the Wildcats could muster and the Panthers clinched the top seed in the district tournament.

Coach Stuart Dill saw two glaring problems for the Wildcats in the game.

“We were really unable to get a big shutdown inning after we would score to cut into their lead,” Dill said. “We also left nine runners on base. We just couldn’t get a big hit when we needed one.”

Clark led the Cats’ offense with three hits and two RBIs. Berry and Wills had two hits each and Smith had two RBIs. Clark started on the mound for the Wildcats and went four innings giving up six runs, striking three and walking two. Blake Prather relieved and gave up three runs, one earned over the final two innings. He struck out four and walked four.

Dill blamed defensive mistakes and walks for the loss.

“We just gave up too many free base runners,” he said. “Six walks and two errors will get you beat most nights but especially against a good team like Carroll,” he said. “Offensively, we were pretty good tonight with 12 hits but we just couldn’t seem to get a big one when we really needed it even though we hit some hard balls.”

Owen Co. 8 HCHS 2

Owen County broke open a close game with three runs in the fifth inning and two in the sixth to pull away for a six-run win.

Henry County managed only seven hits and committed four errors on defense.

Connor Smith pitched all six innings and surrendered four earned runs while striking out three.

ing out three, walking none and hitting two batters.

Blake Prather was three for three at the plate and Berry and Isaac Kent had the RBIs for the Wildcats.

Dill was disappointed in his team’s effort.

“We were not good tonight,” he said. “We cut it to one run but we continue to make bad defensive plays that result in big innings for teams. It has really been a weakness for us. At times we are not mentally tough enough to move past a mistake and it snowballs. One error becomes a walk or another error. That is not a recipe for success.

“Offensively we are hitting too many balls in the air and not making the necessary adjustments at the plate. Pop-ups are easy to defend and we hit what seemed like a thousand tonight.”

The game concluded district play for the Wildcats and Dill said that it made the Wildcats the number three seed instead of the number two seed. The game had no bearing on who they would play in the tournament because they were already locked into playing the Rebels.

“We knew going in that no matter what happened, we would be playing Owen in the tournament,” Dill said. “I don’t know if that played into it with our younger guys, but the focus just wasn’t there.”

Dill thinks the team’s inexperience is playing a part in the team’s recent struggles.

“We really weren’t focused or mentally ready to play,” he said. “Our youth played a big part of it and I think our young guys are feeling the impact of a long high school season, both mentally and physically. Like I told them last night, we have to be tough enough to get past that and move on if we make a mistake. You cannot let one mistake turn into multiple mistakes. That will get you beat every time.”

HCHS 10 Whitefield Academy 3

The Wildcats started out on the same rough path to open the game against Whitefield as they gave up two runs on a couple of soft singles and an error.

But Berry, who started on the mound for the Cats, limited the damage with good pitching and the offense got cranked up to support him with six runs through the first three innings. They added one more in the fifth and three in the sixth to come out with a seven-run win.

Prather had a big day at the plate with a triple, double and single, leaving him a home run shy of hitting for the cycle. Isaac Kent also had three hits and drove in three runs. Wills continued to swing a hot bat with two hits. Smith also had a multi-hit game with a single and a double.

Berry pitched a complete game, striking out nine and walking none. He gave up two earned runs.

Dill was pleased to see the offense come alive after an anemic showing against Owen County.

“We hit a lot better and limited our strikeouts,” he said. “We hit more line drives and ground balls and did a better job of staying out of the air and forcing them to make plays.”

Dill praised his freshman pitcher, Berry.

“Jaydon was great on the mound,” he said. “Nine strikeouts and no walks is an outstanding performance.”

Dill hopes this is a game that turns things around for his team.

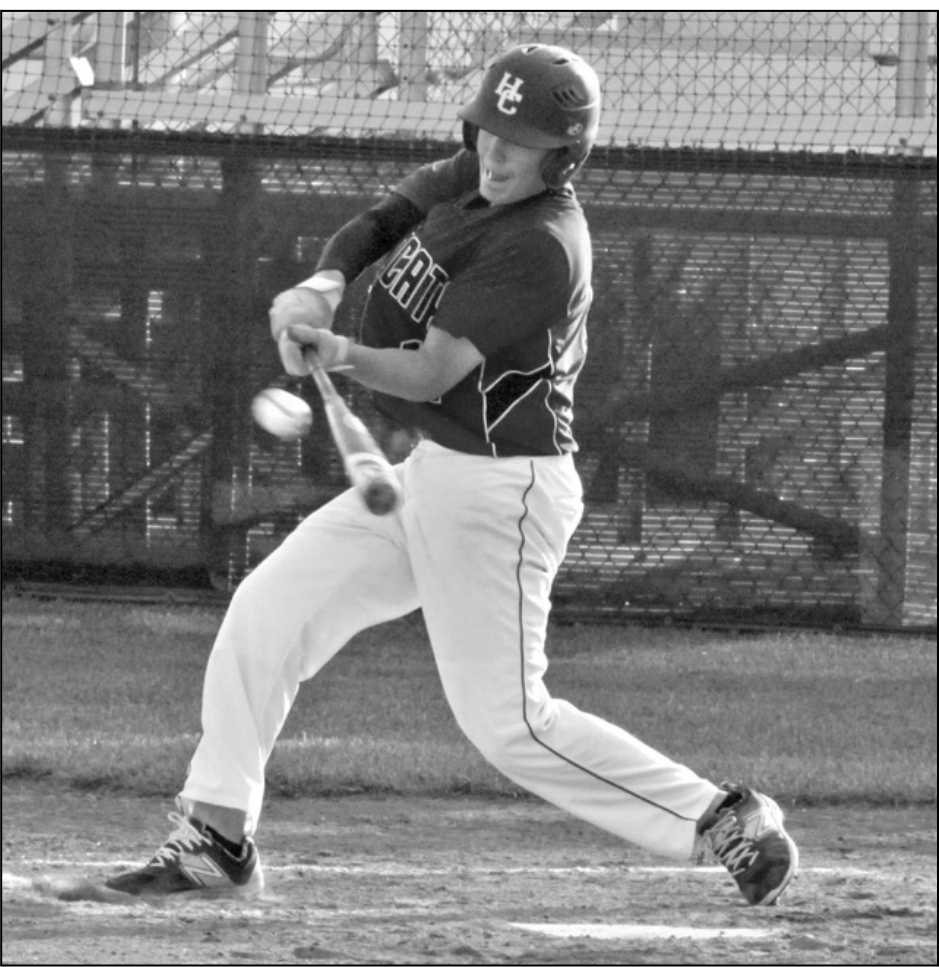

“It was nice to get back on track and start to play a little better,” he said. “It is important that we get some positive momentum over the next week heading into the district tournament.”

HCHS 6 KCD 0

A big fourth inning and a strong pitching performance from Wills were all the Cats needed to notch a win at Kentucky Country Day Saturday.

Wills went the distance, giving up only three hits and striking out two batters.

The offense was quiet most of the day but broke out for all

Below, Blake Prather puts the ball in play in HCHS’ 10-3 victory over Whitefield Academy. The sophomore went three for three with a single, double and triple. Above, Jaydon Berry delivers a pitch. The freshman pitched six innings and struck out nine batters in the complete game victory.

six runs in the pivotal fourth inning. Riggins had a bases clearing triple to lead the rally. Wills helped his own cause with a couple of base hits, a stolen base and a run scored.

“Trey was really good,” Dill said. “He gave up only three infield hits. He was able to throw strikes and keep their hitters off balance all day. He gave our offense a chance.

“We struggled offensively through most of the game but we were able to string several hits together in the fourth and Nick got the big triple that was the key. That was really all the run support that Trey needed.”

HCHS 11 Seneca 1

The Wildcats took on the Redhawks of Seneca in their second game at Country Day on Saturday. They got another good pitching performance, this time from Daniel Murray, and better offense than the first game to end it in five innings.

Henry County scored three runs in the first and two in the second to get off to a good start. After a scoreless third inning, the Wildcats broke out for four in the fourth and two in the fifth and then relied on Murray’s pitching to end it early.

Murray struck out five and walked one over five innings. He gave up the only run in the first inning.

Riggins led the offense with two hits, two stolen bases and two runs scored. Adam Kent scored three runs and Blake Prather had three RBIs.

“We just came out and took care of business in this one,” Dill said. “We jumped on them early and never really looked back. Once Daniel settled down after the first inning, he was really good. He threw strikes and really forced them to make contact.

“Offensively, we took advantage of some of their miscues on defense. I still think we need to work on our approach at the plate as we got ourselves out at times by swinging at bad pitches early in the count.”

Dixie signs with Spalding University

BY GREG WOODS
sports@hclocal.com

Jalen Dixie had to wait a year, but his dream of playing college basketball is about to come true.

Dixie, a 2014 graduate of Eminence High School and a standout basketball player for the Warriors, signed with Spalding University May 6 in a ceremony held in the EHS gym.

Family, faculty and friends looked on as Dixie signed his name on the dotted line that committed him to suit up for the Golden Eagles next season.

Dixie did not sign with any colleges after his prolific scoring days were over at Eminence. He enrolled at Eastern Kentucky University last fall and completed his first semester there.

But the dream of playing college basketball never went away and Dixie decided not to go back to Eastern for the second semester.

Instead, he spent a lot of time working on his game and looking for a college to play for.

A local connection helped him get a tryout at Spalding.

“I got in contact with Brock Roberts, who went to school here,” Dixie said. “He lives in Louisville and had some contacts at the school. I went down there for an open gym and the coach told me he was looking for a point guard.

“When I went down for another open gym Coach Gray handed me the papers and said he wanted me to play for them. He told me he liked my game.”

Dixie said that he spent a lot of his time working out and strengthening his skills.

When asked what specific areas of his game he worked on the left-hander smiled and said, “My right hand.”

Dixie is looking forward to getting back on the court next season.

“I’m excited,” he said. “All I’ve been doing since I took a semester off is working out and working on my game. It’s a blessing and I feel like the hard work has finally paid off.”

“I am proud of Jalen’s persistence to live out his dream of playing collegiate basketball,” EHS coach Chris Nethery said.

Dixie appreciates those who have helped him reach his goal of playing in college.

“I want to thank my dad for always pushing me,” Dixie said. “I would like to thank my high school teammates for making me better and sticking with me through hard times. I want to thank Coach Nethery for keeping faith in me ever since seventh grade.”

Jalen Dixie, middle, signed to play basketball for Spalding University in a ceremony held in the EHS gym May 6. Dixie, who did not sign last year after graduation, is excited about finally fulfilling his dream.

The Henry County girls won the team event with 57 points and the boys finished second to Shelby County by just two points with 75 points.

"It was a good event to get the athletes ready for the upcoming regional track meet," HCHS Coach Zach Mings said. "The girls' team pulled away with a victory and the boys fell just short. I felt that our athletes came out and did what they were supposed to do. Those who performed well all year continued to do so Thursday night. The 4x100-meter team really stood out to me. They have been placing all year but they pulled out the victory and set a personal record of 48.09."

The relay team consisted of Connor Finley, Jesse Potts, Daniel Jones and Cameron Paynter.

a big hit. I was proud of Marissa for showing some toughness behind the plate. She got hit on the hand by a bat behind the plate, but she didn't want to come out. That's her character. She's a senior and she wants to play every game."

"Eminence came out to hit the ball and they did," Kasten said. "They have gotten much better since the first time we played them. Serena threw the ball well and the defense made plays behind them."

While Martin sees improvement in some areas of the defense, he thinks there is room for more.

"Emilie Ethington has done a consistently good job on defense," Martin said. "I have moved her from third base to short-stop but no matter where I put her she has done a good job and made some extraordinary plays. Lyndsey Craigmyle and Emilie really anchor our defense."

"Defensively, we still are not reacting quickly enough to hit balls," he said. "We have to be ready on every pitch. A lot of it is confidence. We have to have confidence."

HCHS 15 Erlanger Lloyd 0

The Lady Cats celebrated Senior Night in a big way Thursday night as they routed Erlanger Lloyd in four innings.

Henry County put up four runs in the first, five in the second and third innings and one in the fourth.

Meanwhile Aly Stanley pitched a two-hitter while striking out four batters and walking two.

Ray had three hits and Madison Rabourn, Skaggs and Kayla Shepherd had two hits each. Rabourn and Mertz had three RBIs each and Olivia Whaley scored three times and swiped three bases.

"Different girls stood out for different things," Kasten said.

"The patience and ability to fight off pitches at the top of the order showed. Olivia, Paige and Savannah combined for nine walks, one hit, a sacrifice and eight runs scored. The only official at-bat for any of them was a triple hit by Olivia in the first inning.

"Shelby, Madison, Kayla and Kelsey Skaggs hit the ball well. Each of them had multiple hits and Kelsey had two doubles.

"Molly had a tremendous game at third base," he continued. "She has been a rock there for us for the past several years and she makes great plays that we look at as Molly being Molly while they are amazing plays to other teams. She makes incredible plays look easy and had three or four incredible plays against Lloyd.

"Aly pitched really well and most importantly, pitched to her defense. Both times that Lloyd had a girl on third base, she was able to come up huge and get the outs."

Kasten talked about the six seniors the team paid tribute to before the game.

"I can't say enough about these seniors," Kasten said. "Four of them have been here since I came back and have meant the world to this program. They have had to go through some rough years where we struggled, but they stayed with it and now have gotten back to the number one seed in the district.

"Savannah and Kayla have come in this year and fit right in and become big parts of this team.

"It was great to win on Senior Night. I'm so proud of the seniors and all the hard work and dedication that they have put into this program."

HCHS 10 Carroll Co. 0

In their final district seeding game at Carroll County the Lady Cats did enough to finish undefeated against their district opponents.

The Lady Cats scored four runs in the first inning but then the bats went cold in the second and third before they came back for one in the fourth and five in the fifth to end the game on 10-run rule.

Stanley pitched another two-hitter, striking out nine and walking one. DeBurger, Mertz and Rabourn had two hits each, while Whaley scored three runs and Mertz and Rabourn had three RBIs apiece.

"This was not a great game for us offensively," Kasten said. "They threw off knowing that our game didn't mean anything as far as seeding went and we struggled to stay patient a lot with their pitcher.

"Defensively, this was a great game for us. Aly pitched well and our defense played well behind her. The whole game."

Kasten recognized the contribution of leadoff hitter Olivia Whaley.

"Olivia scored three runs," he said. "She's been doing a wonderful job at the leadoff spot, seeing pitches, drawing walks and getting on base."

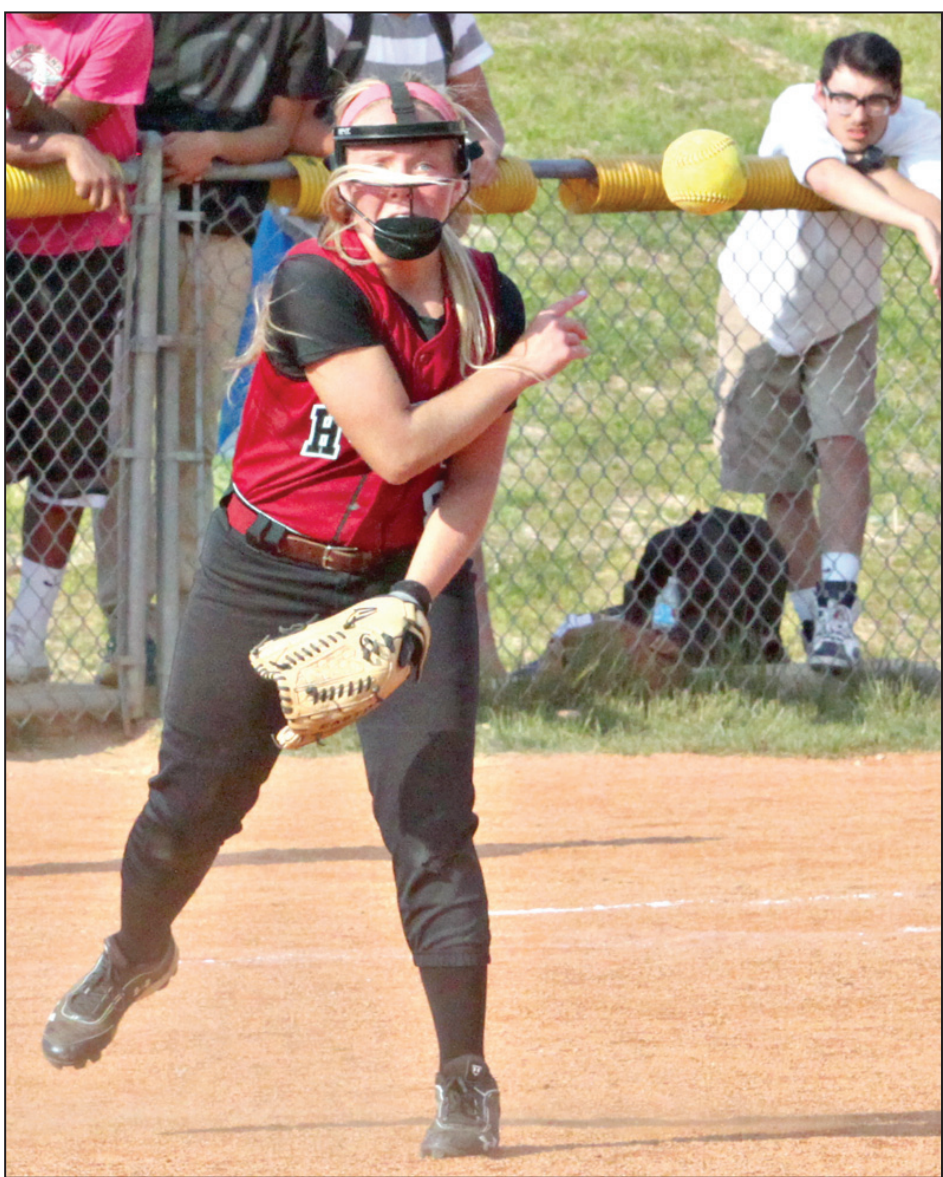

But he wasn't satisfied with the way the rest of the team approached the game offensively.

"We weren't nearly patient enough at the plate," Kasten said. "In the first inning we took three walks and then turn around to make three outs in the inning by hitting the first pitch of the at-bat. We have to learn to notice if the pitcher is struggling and to take advantage of that."

But Kasten is happy the team reached a goal but does not want his team to be satisfied just yet.

"We finished the season undefeated in district seeding games which was a minor goal of ours," he said. "But we are well aware that just because you are the number one seed, doesn't guarantee you a spot in the regional tournament and we know that we will have to earn it next week."

out of further trouble by retiring the next three batters.

Gallatin County got an unearned run in the sixth but the Warriors were able to come back to stretch the lead out to three again in the bottom of the inning when Payton smacked a two-out RBI-double to score Seth Wolford and make it 6-3.

Gallatin County threatened in the seventh but the Warriors got a break when they were able to pick off a base runner that overran third base after a base hit. Cole Lawson struck out the next batter with runners on first and second and then induced a groundball to Metten who threw to Gregory for the final out and the first Warrior district win in recent memory.

Lawson struck out five batters and walked two. He fanned all three batters in the fifth inning as he appeared to grow stronger late in the game. Lawson's first strikeout came in the fourth inning.

Jones and Payton led the team with two hits apiece. Gregory reached base three times on a single and two walks and scored twice.

"The most important point I want to make about this game is that we limited ourselves to one mistake and one mistake only at any given point," Coach Liam Corley said. "We didn't let a mistake snowball into a big inning. Everyone contributed something to the win. If we made an error or if we had a rough at bat, we focused on 'this pitch,' which I talked about at the beginning of the season. It was awesome."

Corley was especially pleased with his freshman first baseman.

"Trey Gregory seemed to be all over the place," he said. "He got a base hit on a bunt, made a nice scoop or two over at first and was patient at the plate. He's really matured a lot as the season has progressed."

He was also pleased with the veterans on the team.

"Our seniors were leading the pack," he said. "Trevor has focused on his ability to hit the ball gap to gap, Austin Jones is a great leader behind the plate and in our three spot. He had a sacrifice fly and huge bunt. Cole Lawson was just pounding the strike zone and finding ways to get on base. They are incredible young men to have leading our team."

Paris 9 EHS 2

The Warriors could not capitalize on their momentum from the Gallatin game as they traveled to Paris and fell behind 4-0 in the first inning. After three innings it was 6-0.

The Warriors scratched out a run in the fourth but Paris came back for three more in their half of the inning to put the game away.

The Warriors collected eight hits but could not string them together for a big inning. Jones and Cameron Mathis each scored a run and Metten and Payton provided the RBIs.

The normally effusive coach was tight-lipped about this one.

"The only comment I'll make is that we need to be able to play each and every day," Corley said. "We can't just show up some days and not want it. In our boys' favor, it was a long bus ride and we got a little lost. It was just a tough loss and that is really all I have to say about it."

Frankfort 12 EHS 8

The Warriors were back on the road at Frankfort Saturday and got off to a much better start but eventually lost by four runs.

The Warriors jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the top of the first on singles by Gregory and Jones and a double by Metten.

Frankfort came back for a run in the second and four in the fourth to take a 5-2 lead.

The Warriors tied it in the top of the third. Andrew Coomes had an RBI double and Jared Golden came through with an RBI single to keep the big inning.

But the Warriors could not capitalize on the comeback as Frankfort came back for five runs in their half of the fourth to take a 10-5 lead. They added to the lead in the fifth with another run before Eminence scored two in the top of the sixth to make it 11-7 when Payton and Gregory scored on a double by Jones.

Frankfort once again had an answer for a Warrior rally as they tacked on another run in the bottom of the sixth.

The Warriors tried to come back one more time in the seventh but could muster just one run when Coomes came home on a sacrifice fly by Mathis.

"We should have won this one," Corley said.

"Silly mental mistakes on the base paths and in the field cost us this one. Hand it to Frankfort. They smacked the ball a little bit but we hit better than them. Trevor didn't have his best stuff but the sign of a good pitcher is on tough days, you can muscle out four innings and still be a leader in the dugout.

"Jared Golden and Mitchell Metten played good games all the way around and were leaders throughout the entire game."

EHS

The Warriors performed much better the following night against the Lady Panthers.

After falling behind 7-1 after four innings, the Warriors worked themselves back into the game only to fall just short.

Serena Dockter had three hits and her sister Madison added two hits, as did Ethington. Amiya Hunt scored two runs for the Warriors while Serena Dockter, Feyven Kruer and Ethington had one RBI each.

"We started slow again," Martin said. "If we had focused from the beginning, we could have won the game. But our bats did catch fire a bit in this game. We did better at the plate because we are swinging the bats and not letting them rest on our shoulders."

Serena struggled some with her control on the mound," he said. "I admire her leadership in wanting to take it all on her shoulder but she has to let the defense play behind. She needs to slow down and have better control. Errors behind her frustrate her and then she tries to strike everybody out. When she relaxes and doesn't try to strike everybody out, she pitches better."

Williamstown 11 EHS 1

After another encouraging offensive performance against Henry County on May 6, the Warriors traveled to Williamstown for a doubleheader on Friday and came out on the short end in the first game.

"In the first game our usual hitters weren't hitting," Martin said. "I don't know if it was the long bus ride but we just didn't make contact and we were helping them by swinging at bad pitches."

Martin said that one of his leading players, Lyndsey Craigmyle reinjured her quad muscle trying to beat out an infield hit in the game which took one of his more aggressive hitters out of the lineup.

Williamstown 11 EHS 9

The Warriors got the offense going in the second game and had a chance all the way to the end but in the final two innings, they reverted to old form and came up short.

"We had a chance in the sixth and seventh but our top hitters went down in order in the sixth and the same thing happened in the seventh," Martin said. "It appeared that their pitcher was getting tired and starting to struggle with control but we swung at bad pitches and helped her out. I think the girls wanted to hit so bad that they lost their patience at the plate. I really feel like we should have won this one."

Martin is proud of his young team for continuing to give a good effort after a long season.

"I had a couple of people who couldn't go in the second game because of injuries," he said. "So I moved an inexperienced eighth-grader to second base and a sixth-grader into centerfield. Neither one complained and went out there and tried their best. Wherever I ask them to play or whatever I ask them to do, they never complain. They just go out there and give it 100 percent.

I can't complain about their effort."

Martin said the team's best offensive showing of the season came down to aggressiveness on the base paths.

"We took advantage of a lot of walks and mistakes by them," Martin said. "Whenever we had someone on base, I would have them running, to try to force more mistakes by Williamstown. The girls did a good job of being aggressive. Jadyn Browning had a really good hit up the middle for a triple. She is just a sixth-grader. She was very excited."

Ethington and Puckett led the team with two runs scored.

The Henry County Lady Cats made the short trip to Eminence to take on the Warriors May 6 and slugged their way to a 20-5 win.

The Lady Cats opened with six runs in the first inning but saw the Warriors strike back for four runs in their half of the inning to make it a two-run game.

The Lady Cats came back for eight runs in the second inning and then cruised to the 15-run victory.

Savannah Mertz led the Lady Cats' offense with five hits in five at-bats. She had five RBIs and three runs scored. Shelby Ray recorded three hits scored four times and had two RBIs. As a team the Lady Cats had 17 hits. Paige DeBurger pitched for the Lady Cats and helped her own cause with four RBIs at the plate. She struck one batter and walked one batter.

The Warriors' offense showed improvement as they had nine hits to produce five runs. Serena Dockter had three hits and her sister, Madison, had two hits. Lyndsey Craigmyle scored two runs and Marissa Puckett had three RBIs on a bases clearing double in the first inning.

"We hit the ball well and executed offensively," Lady Cats' coach Jon Kasten said. "Savannah had a big day with five hits and Shelby had three. Kelsey Skaggs hit the ball very hard and had a triple."

"Henry County is a good team with powerful hitters," EHS coach Jerry Martin said. "But we hit the ball better and were able to score some runs. Serena hit the ball well and Marissa had

The Eminence Warriors hosted the Gallatin County Wildcats May 5 and defeated their district rivals 6-3.

Cole Lawson gave a strong pitching performance and the Warriors' offense came through with some clutch hits to get their first district win of the season.

The Warriors jumped on top with two runs in the first inning. Trevor Payton led off with a single and Trey Gregory followed with a walk. With two outs Lawson doubled to left-centerfield to bring home both runs.

Gallatin County got both runs back in the top of the second with a couple of doubles, a single and an Eminence error.

The Warriors regained the lead in the bottom of the fifth inning with three runs.

Jared Golden led off with a walk. Payton was hit by a pitch and Gregory followed with another walk to load the bases. Golden came home on a wild pitch before Austin Jones singled to score Payton. Mitchell Metten followed with another single to score Gregory. The Wildcats managed to get

They bounced back Thursday with a win over Whitefield at home and then defeated KCD and Seneca on Saturday.

The Wildcats played better against the Panthers than last week when Carroll won 9-1 at Henry County. On the return trip the Wildcats got their bats going but could not shut down the Panthers' offense.

The Wildcats scored two runs in the first inning on an RBI double by Jaden Berry but Carroll County answered with four runs in the bottom of the second.

The Panthers added to their lead on a two-run homer in the bottom of the fourth.

Busy week for EHS softball team

BY GREG WOODS
sports@hclocal.com

The Eminence Warriors softball team started off a busy week on the diamond with a doubleheader at Owen County on May 4.

The Warriors lost the first game of the doubleheader 10-0 and the second game, 11-0.

In the first game Aaliyah Bailey got the only hits for the Warriors while Lyndsey Craigmyle had a walk and two stolen bases. Madison Dockter also walked and stole a base.

In the second game the Warriors lost 11-0 and were no-hit in the game. The Warriors had two runners reach on errors and Daphna Dale had two stolen bases.

"Once again we started out ice cold," Coach Jerry Martin said. "I'm not sure why we always start out so cold. We hit well in batting practice but struggle to translate that to the game."

"Defensively, we played alright but we had a few misplayed balls. Emilie Ethington made some extraordinary plays in the field. She is really doing a good job defensively."
